

Your Hot Tub's Cover

A Word from the Owner

Unfortunately covers have been the weak link in our industry for 30+ years. Nobody has yet found an economical way of changing the effects of what we term the "physics of condensation". The 4 (or so) inches between the top of the water and the bottom of the cover is a highly volatile environment where chemical reactions are intense enough to have a gradual, yet debilitating, effect on the vinyl underside of the cover, eroding it over time (typically 4-6 years) to the point where the vinyl, and the heavy duty poly wrap inside the vinyl are weakened enough to allow the dew point (exacerbated by high difference between hot tub water and ambient outside air temperature) to have an increasingly easier time of saturating the high density foam inside these "wrap layers". This saturation, then, reduces the "r" value of the cover and ultimately makes it dangerously heavy (for your back) to remove/replace easily as well as decreasing its energy efficiency.

All that said, we nevertheless appreciate Maine people doing business with Maine companies (has kept us alive and well for 30+ years, ready to support your larger investment in the tub itself), and for that reason we sell our high quality covers below industry retail margins and occasionally put our covers on sale too.

Appreciatively,
Jim
